

Prof. Dr. Stefano Merigliano

Brief Professional Profile

Prof. Dr. Stefano Merigliano is a Padua University full Professor of Surgery, chair of the Department of General Surgery, and the President of the Faculty of Medicine and Surgery. He specializes in Colorectal Surgery and is the head of the Division of Colorectal Surgery.

Prof. Merigliano is also managing director of the Department of Experimental Colorectal Surgery at the University of Padova. He is also a director of the “Surgical Techniques of Proctology.” Additionally, he teaches in the postgraduate School of Plastic Surgery, Padua University. In addition, the European Space Agency invited Prof. Merigliano to teach and train international groups of doctors and nurses from Europe under the patronage of the Veneto Region Government. He was also the general coordinator of the National Telemedicine Plan.

Prof. Merigliano’s scientific-clinical interest includes a) clinical implementation of experimental and micro-surgery; b) pathophysiology of the oesophageal illness and cancer, including therapies; c) informative technology in medicine for both diagnostic and educational purposes.

Professor Merigliano is a well-published author and recipient of multiple awards for contributions to the progress in modern clinical education and outstanding results of clinical management of current therapies in the field of colorectal surgery.

For more information, please visit Padua University’s website by using the link:
<https://www.discog.unipd.it/stefano-merigliano>