

WORLDWIDE CONGRESS SPEAKER PROMOTION

The Congress presents a unique opportunity for the prospective speakers to present in front of a global audience during the online broadcasting of the conference on cosmetic-plastic gynecology complications resulting from an ill-developed concept of surgical techniques (the harmful procedure concept). Based on the clinical-scientific quality of the abstract, the Scientific Committee and the President of Congress will decide which speaker to include in one of the Plenary Sessions and round-table debates associated with this session's topic. A speaker will present a particular surgical intervention concept in cosmetic-plastic gynecology without outcomes and then can share the pros and cons experience in a round table experts' debate.

A prospective speaker can furnish congress with either a structural or graphical abstract, and both templates of these abstracts are available in the abstract tabs of the congress website. Every submitted abstract will get full consideration by congress. The President and the Scientific Committee will send a congratulatory letter for becoming the selected speaker to address the congress in the Plenary and round-table discussion sessions. In summary, every speaker will have worldwide double exposure a) as a speaker of the Plenary Session; b) as a round-table participant. Additionally, congress will use multiple social media for promotions. Furthermore, the Congress registration fee will be refunded.
